The function of a Viceroy (or L. Lieut. of Ireland) by O. Swift. 157

This may be true - Submitting still,
 To Walpole's more than Royal will.
 And what condition can be worse?
 He comes to drain a beggars purse:
 He comes to tie our Chains on faster,
 And show the England is our master;
 Caring Knaves, and Dunces weeing,
 To make them work their own undoing.

To to effect his Monarchs ends,
 From hell a Viceroy Devil ascends,
 His Budget with Corruptions Gramm'd,
 The Contributions of the Damnd;
 Which with unsparing hand he scours,
 Thro' Courts & Senates as he goes;
 And then at Belzebubs black hall,
 Complains his Budget was too small

For no imaginable things.
 Can differ more than God & Kings,
 And Statesmen by ten thousand odds,
 Are Angels, just as Kings are Gods.
