THE SKETCH. 345

A FUTURIST RECIPE.

TAKE THE EFFORTS OF A CHRISTMASY BILL-POSTER.

AND A ROOM LINED UP BY FATHER.

INTRODUCE LITTLE DANCERS OUT SHOPPING WITH HIS WIFE.

CUPID AND PSYCHE AND THERE YOU ARE!
No. You need not use, above life. You can call it anything you like without fear of contradiction.

A STUDY IN PAULO-POST-FUTURIST COMPOSITION: THE "SUPERIMPOSED" PROCESS.

ARTISTS' REVEL AT COVENT GARDEN.

The most joyful revel of the season, full of the wild hopes of people and the best of dancing to the best of music all through the night with a cheer for more when a long programme was brought in. At 11.15, Lord Selsby at Covent Garden on Wednesday. Our festive show Mr. G. Terry, the famous song-writer, with eight other merry men. They named the period as "Futurist 2014," but were quite funny enough for 1914.

FUTURISTS AT ARTISTS' REVEL.

Nine merry Futurists at the Artists' Revel Costume Ball, which took up early yesterday at Covent Garden. The party described their period as "Futurist 2014." It was a very gay and joyful function.

Lady Ethel Kent as a Quakeress. Mr. Douglas Hogg, the actor, as himself. Lord Sandrich is entertaining a large party at Hinchingsbrook, his seat near Hantsington. A fancy dress ball given by the leadership of Miss Marjorie Hagot was attended by guests from all the leading houses of the aristocracy, and was a great success. Mr. Douglas Newton is a Parliamentary candidate.

Sir George Ashwith was a sort of bridge of iron. Lady Margaret Cochrane was an Egyptian Princess. Douglas Newton a Georgian gentleman. The Hon. Mrs. Balfour in a Watteau costume. Lord Chesham made a picturesque Neapolitan. Lord Curzon appeared as Blucher. Countess Dugdale was a Futurist. Lord Sandrich, the host, was dressed as Lord Burghley. Lady Hester Wood was in a Native costume. The Native fashions are coming in again.
