Title	The Prodigal daughter, or A strange and wonderful relation, : shewing how a gentleman of a vast estate in Bristol, had a proud and disobedient daughter, who because her parents would not support her in all extravagance, bargained with the Devil to poison them. How an angel informed her parents of her design. How she lay in a trance four days; and when she was put in the grave she came to life again, and related the wonderful things she saw in the other world. : Likewise the substance of a sermon preached on the occasion, by the Rev. Mr. Williams, from Luke XV. 24.

Her Father stript her of her rich array,
And then he drest her in a russet grey,
And to her chamber he did her confine,
With bread and water fed her for some time.

Although their hearts did ache for her full sore,
This course they took her soul for to restore,
But all in vain, she wanted Heaven's grace,
And sin within her heart had taken place.

One night as in her room she musing were,
The Devil in her room did then appear,
And seemingly he took her by the hand,
In shape and person like a gentleman.
