This image shows the verso side of a historical Canadian Pacific Railway timetable. The page is densely packed with information, organized into several distinct sections:

- Top Section: A series of vertical columns containing detailed train schedules, including departure and arrival times, and the names of the trains. The text is small and arranged in a grid-like format.
- Map Section: A large, detailed map of the railway network, showing the extensive reach of the Canadian Pacific Railway across the continent. The map includes station names and connecting lines.
- Logos and Branding: The Canadian Pacific Railway logo is prominently displayed, featuring a globe and the text "CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY". The logo is positioned in the lower right corner of the page.
- Textual Content: Various blocks of text provide general information, including "GENERAL INFORMATION" and "CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY" headers, which likely contain details about fares, services, and company policies.

The overall layout is professional and functional, designed to provide travelers with essential information for their journeys. The paper appears aged, with some discoloration and wear visible at the edges.
