Poste-Beacon Feb 26.

My dear Charles,

I see that the Bee says I have resigned. The with a further to the thought. The hear a paper said

I would stay in January 18 months.

No doubt my resignation would be very welcome news to those who want the place. With every disposition to be amenable I cannot bring myself to oblige them fully. Yet I lay this for your private eye and for the purpose of having the lie contradicted. I leave that to the wise. for I shall take my own time for resigning. The fellow that let afford these stories would be allowed whatever satisfaction momentary lying can give them. The aspirants for the place Dear "Dad, a little longer" I have received a letter from Frederick which gives me some hope that he has in this once more got into some work. I am glad to learn that his boy Paul is doing better.

What do you hear of William? He was still in New York when I last heard from him. He seems to have dropped me at once as I could lend him no more money. That is according to a very old saying, dead upon money and done upon friend. I will tell you that I have acquitted myself of all blame for the interference of my speech. I see that Dr. Langton has lost no time in betraying his trust. She knows fall not a statesman. i am very glad to have from you a good account of daly's progress i think you and laurea may well take comfort in their boy.

What I lack in this letter you must make up in reading the enclosed I send to Joe.

The country is about as peaceful as it ever is and it is never without disturbance or rumour of disturbance. The President is just now about from the Capital on a tour to the South. Make my love to Laura and Halsey and kind remembrances to them and Mrs. Colbert. Write me when you can of all the news about town affectionately

Your father.
